OUR HILO LETTER.

Preparations for the Fourth—Work Progressing at Olaa—The News of Kapiolani's Death Received with Sorrow.

Work on the Olaa Plantation is going on apace. All hands are as busy as bees, ploughing and planting as rapidly as possible. Several contracts for clearing land have been made with Chinese and Japanese, who are drawing laborers to help them from all the plantations near Hilo by offering them higher wages than they receive on the plantations. This will make the plantations short handed at a time when they can ill afford to lose a man; but what, however, can you expect when the coolies have to work almost twelve hours a day for about as many dollars a month.

Upon the receipt of the news of the death of the Queen Kapiolani, flags were hoisted to half mast. Many Hawaiians and kamaeas who knew her were sorry to hear of her death and in one or two instances private dinner parties were postponed out of respect to Her Late Majesty.

One of the lunas on the Waiakae Plantation, David Smith, a native of Scotland, died at the Hospital on Sunday last of typhoid fever. He had been ailing for some days before he called in medical aid. He was buried from the Hilo Foreign Church, his funeral being attended by a great number of his countrymen.

Miss Oma Little is still in a critical condition yet the doctors have hopes of her recovery.

Great preparations are being made for the proper celebration of the "Glorious Fourth" in Hilo. The grand stand is being considerably enlarged to better accommodate the great by increased population of Hilo and the neighborhood since last year. In fact Hilo is so rapidly growing in population and new buildings and residences that in a few years time the "country cousin" will be arriving from, instead of at Honolulu. The committee on sports has arranged a very extensive programme of sports, of all kinds, which will wind up with a grand ball at the Hotel. Mr. McDonough, the Manager of the Hotel, is having a large luau built on the lawn between the band-stand and the main entrance to the Hotel, for dancing. No expense will be spared apparently to make the day a happy one.

The Church Social which was tendered the choir by the Church Social Circle on Friday last was most entertaining and instructive. It had for its special feature an exhibition of pictures which were loaned for the occasion by local people. These consisted of paintings in oil a water color, pen and ink and pencil sketches, in all over a hundred works of art. There were several gems by Tavernier which were very pleasing, in that they reminded one of days gone by when those who knew that clever artist were privileged to visit his studio and see him work in that rapid yet artistic manner which was peculiar to him.

There were also a few of Furneaux's pictures, attractive in themselves and demonstrating what the artistic public has lost on account of an injury to that artist's eyes. Then there were two or three of D. Howard Hitchcock's on whom the mantle of Tavernier fell, each beautiful pieces of work which bespeak a glorious future for that talented artist. There were in the collection a number of amateur works among which were some very clever paintings by J. T. Stacker which were a surprise to those who did not know of his artistic ability. Dr. Hutchinson also had some very fine pictures on exhibition. During the evening Mr. Stacker gave an interesting lesson in charcoal work.

The Kinau has begun her old tricks again of arriving in the middle of the night. This is very unfair to Hilo for it tends to keep away a considerable lot of traffic. No hacks met the steamer on Wednesday and it was very late before the last passenger left the landing. The Hilo Merchants are again talking of
